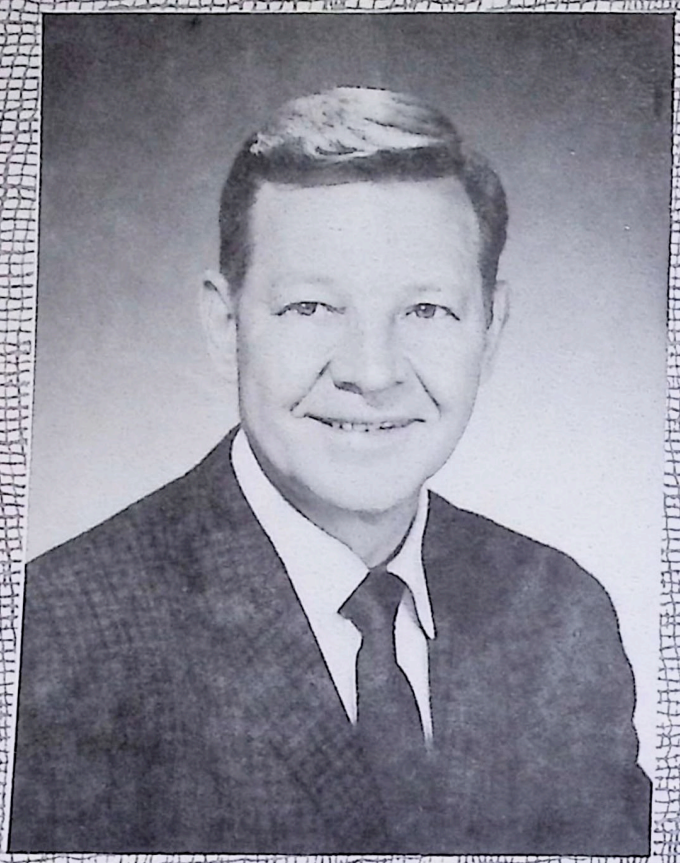
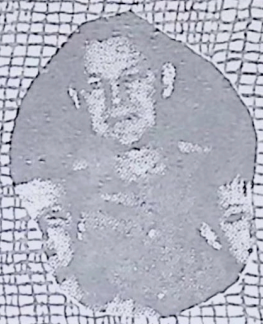
DEDICATION





We, the members of the Class of 1975, do, with great pleasure, dedicate the 1975 Senior Issue of the Hoosier to a man who has dedicated a large part of his life and love to the students of the Indiana School for the Deaf. He has helped us with our problems while we were here. He has earned the love and respect of the students and staff. He has been very patient dealing with us as human beings and has been very modest in extolling his deeds. He is none other than Mr. Paul F. Baldridge.

Superintendent Alfred J. Lamb

To the Class of 1975:

"If you do not do your best, then you have failed." Your Class Motto presents a real challenge when you analyze it carefully. How many people do you know who live by it? Do you live by it? You are the only one who knows for sure whether you are doing your best in everything you do. If you can measure up to the challenge your motto presents you will bring honor to yourselves and to your school. We all congratulate you for your past achievements. May your future accomplishments be even more noteworthy.

Best Wishes.

To the Class of 1975:

The Class of 1975 is graduating at the three quarters of the 20th Century mark. What changes have been experienced during the last 25 years! What changes can be expected as the 21st Century approaches!

Our world has become more and more complex. So have conditions in our country, our state, our school, our daily lives. Ecology, shortages, inflation—you name it—necessitate re-evaluation of everything for the present and the future.

Regardless of changes, the basics for success are still clear: Hard work, continuing education, and strong cooperative working relationships with others. The challenges to deaf students are greater than ever before.

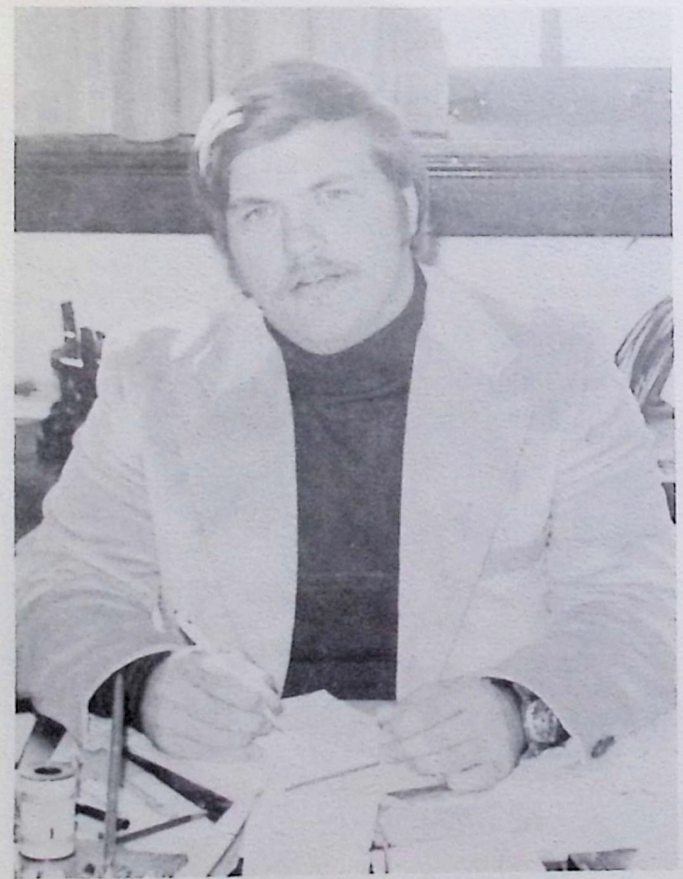
Best wishes to all of you, now and in the years to come.

Assistant Superintendent Jess M. Smith

To the Class of 1975:

Hopefully many of you will go on to college or receive additional training in some other manner. Those of you who will begin seeking employment will face a real challenge this year due to the high unemployment rate. Such conditions have existed before and have always changed for the better. They will again. If you keep trying and keep telling yourself you can find a job you will succeed. If your future job is very difficult to find, you may try harder to keep it once you're hired. In this way you could become more successful than if jobs were plentiful. Good Luck!

Business Administrator Gregg D. Hartley



Dean of Students Robert C. Kellogg

To the Class of 1975:

You are coming to the end of a long journey; your education at the Indiana School for the Deaf. The road will divide and lead in one of two directions. One road will lead to success, and one road will lead to failure. The decision is yours. You may continue your education or secure a good job with a good salary. Or, you could make several mistakes and poor decisions and have many problems.

Each of you has a new chance at a new future. The Indiana School for the Deaf has taught you many things, but there are many things you have yet to learn. You will continue to learn from books, newspapers, co-workers, friends and family. What you become depends upon what you have learned and what you will learn. The past is finished. The future is yours.
